

Feng Shui Lo Shu Grid

S. East	South	S. West
East	Center	West
N. East	North	N. West

(In this sample, the arrow indicates a west-facing building.)

To customize this diagram for your building, use a magnetic compass (or a magnetic compass AP on your smart phone) to determine where the north-south axis and east-west axis are in your floorplan.

Start by standing outside your building with your back to the main entrance, facing away from the door to take your compass reading.

After you know the N-S and E-W locations, just fill in the other compass directions to complete your grid.

Your finished grid should resemble the above diagram except the 8 compass directions will be located in the appropriate spaces for your unique floorplan.

Indicate the facing orientation of your building with an arrow as shown in above sample.

